Courses taught

At University of Florida

Just English?

Content: A Quest [undergrad general education] course on multilingualism

Field methods in linguistics:

Languages covered: Yucatec, Tigrinya, Chaldean Neo-Aramaic

Proseminar in linguistic and cultural anthropology:

Content: Survey course in linguistic anthropology for first year grad students. Cotaught with a colleague from cultural anthropology

Language and culture:

Content: Large undergraduate introduction to linguistic anthropology

Methods in language documentation

At University of Oklahoma:

Field methods in linguistics

Content: Intensive analysis of Creek, a Muskogean language of Oklahoma

General linguistics (Ling/Ant 2303)

Content: Introduction to linguistic theory

Grammar: Syntax (Ling/Ant 4353)

Content: Introduction to syntactic analysis

At University at Albany:

Special topics in anthropology (Ant 197)

Content: The grammar of Klingon in relation to natural languages

The design of language (Ant 125Z)

Content: The grammar of constructed languages (such as Elvish and Klingon) in relation to natural languages

Introduction to linguistics (Ling/Ant 220)

Content: Overview of linguistic theory

Introduction to cognitive science (Ling/Psych 301)

Content: Overview of linguistic, psychological, and computational approaches to the study of cognition

Introduction to Syntax (Ling/Ant 321)

Content: Introduction to syntactic analysis within the framework of generative grammar

Advanced syntax (Ling 421)

Content: Second semester of the syntax sequence

Advanced phonology (Ling/Ant 422)

Content: Second semester of the phonology sequence

Proseminar in linguistics (Ant 506)

Content: Graduate survey course in linguistic anthropology

Language and culture (Ant/Ling 524)

Content: Relationships between linguistic and non-linguistic cognition

Comparative and historical linguistics (Ant/Ling 525)

Content: Introduction to historical linguistics

Field methods in anthropological linguistics (Ant 429/529)

Content: Intensive analysis of a selected language. Past languages included: Lungu (Bantu, Zambia), Worodugukan (Mande, Côte d'Ivoire), Mon (Mon-Khmer, Burma), Thai (Tai, Thailand), Copala Trique (Mixtecan, Mexico), Kaqchikel (Mayan, Guatemala), and Amharic (Semitic, Ethiopia), Turkish, Dari

Linguistic structures (Ling 423/523)

Broadwell -- April 23, 2025

Content: The grammatical structures of a selected language area or language family. Past families/language areas included: Mayan, Bantu, Southeast Asia, Mande, Semitic, Zapotecan, and Altaic, and Austroasiatic

Studies in linguistics (Ant 527, 624)

Variable content: Past topics included: Zapotecan languages, Syntax of Mayan languages, Topic and Focus in Mesoamerican languages, Documenting Endangered Languages

At Syracuse University:

Seminar in linguistics (Ling 725)

Content: Investigations in the theory of pronominal systems

Introduction to Syntax (Ling 425/325)

Content: Introduction to syntactic analysis within the framework of government-binding theory

At UCLA:

Introduction to Linguistics (Ling 20)

Content: Introduction to linguistics for majors
