Office hours: M 2:00-3:15 & F 11:45-12:30 (or by appointment), Anderson 320

Class schedule/location: MWF 4 (10:40-11:30), FAC 0120

Summary and objectives:

This course will introduce you to the major issues, debates, and works of scholarship relating to Latin America's role in regional, international, and global politics and political economy. While we will trace the evolution of the international politics of the region from the beginning, this course focuses on the period starting with the Cold War. We will pay particular attention to current issues and future horizons relating to Latin America's place in the global system, including its evolving relationship with the U.S., the growing role of China, and the rise of Brazil. Throughout, we will analyze how thinkers from a variety of fields, perspectives, and locations have sought to make sense of the Latin American experience.

Course format:

This course will ideally function as a discussion-oriented seminar. That is, your comments and reactions to readings and other materials will (hopefully) play a fundamental role in guiding the trajectory of the class. As such, participation will factor heavily into your final grade. I will also aim to bring guest speakers into class several times during the semester. This is designed to be a 6000-word writing course, meaning that you will write a total of no less than 6000 words.

While we will briefly review the basic contours of the fields of Latin American Studies and International Relations at the beginning of the course, time constraints prevent us from doing so in any depth. If you lack background in either area, you may wish to consult the following reference sources (many others exist as well). You are also encouraged to speak to me about this during office hours.

Latin America

Benjamin Keen and Keith Haynes. A History of Latin America.

Thomas Skidmore, et al. Modern Latin America.

Peter H. Smith. Talons of the Eagle: Latin America, the United States, and the World.

International Relations

Tim Dunne, et al. International Relations Theories: Discipline and Diversity.

Books & readings:

This syllabus draws from an eclectic mix of texts. You will read works from scholars, protagonists, and activists; from Latin Americans reflecting on their own region, and U.S. thinkers for whom Latin America is the "Other"; and from Latin Americanists who are interested in the region for its own sake, as well as those who seek to understand it within a more general context. This is intended to both help guide you in the selection of a research topic, as well as push you to think about broader themes.

To minimize your financial burden, only a few (relatively) inexpensive books are required. They may be purchased from the UF bookstore or obtained elsewhere/through other means. The other readings will be available either through the course webpage or directly from the UF library website (details below).

Required texts:

Cardoso, Fernando Henrique and Enzo Faletto. 1979. Dependency and Development in Latin America. Berkeley, CA: University of California Press.

Grandin, Greg. 2007. Empire's Workshop: Latin America, the United States, and the Rise of the New Imperialism. New York: Metropolitan/Holt.

Mignolo, Walter D. 2005. The Idea of Latin America. Malden, MA: Blackwell Publishing.

News & current events:

You are expected to follow current events relating to Latin America on your own. Throughout the semester, we will discuss news stories and relate them to course materials. Though there is a dearth of quality English-language coverage of Latin America, palatable sources include:

- BBC (http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world/latin_america/)
- New York Times (<http://www.nytimes.com/pages/world/americas/index.html>)
- Al Jazeera (<http://www.aljazeera.com/news/americas/>)
- The Economist (<http://www.economist.com/world/americas>)

Course requirements & grades:

A	93-100	B+	87-89.9	B-	80-82.9	C	73-76.9	D+	67-69.9	D-	60-62.9
A-	90-92.9	B	83-86.9	C+	77-79.9	C-	70-72.9	D	63-66.9	E	<60

20 percent: attendance & participation

In addition to attending class, you are expected to make substantive contributions to discussions, particularly in such a way that shows you have grappled with course materials.

30 percent: (short) reaction papers

After each unit, you will write a brief response to the corresponding material. I will send prompts, as well as provide additional information, as the relevant dates draw near. These papers are designed to gauge whether you have been following along and contemplating the issues under consideration. You must write a minimum of 500 words (and no more than 600) for each paper. To receive full credit, they must be received by midnight on the specified date.

Reaction paper	Date of posting of question(s)	Due date
Unit 1	August 30	September 4
Unit 2	October 2	October 9
Unit 3	November 13	November 18
Unit 4	December 2	December 4

50 percent: research project

This is the largest component of your grade. You will choose a topic/question that is both interesting and important; assemble a bibliography; draw from these sources to determine what we do and do not know about this issue; and finally, elaborate a research plan for pursuing further study of this topic, and delineate what you would expect to find if you carried it out. In so doing, you will learn not only about your topic of interest, but also about the more general process of conducting social science research. We will of course discuss these various steps throughout the semester.

You MUST see me during office hours to discuss your topic before it is due (I will post sign-up sheets outside of my office to facilitate scheduling). Topics can include any aspect of the international politics of Latin America, broadly defined. You are free to choose topics not covered in class.

This project consists of multiple stages, which you will turn in sequentially. You should utilize the feedback you receive on earlier parts to improve the final product. The sum of these parts, once revised and put together into the final paper, must be at least 4000 words (not including the bibliography). This is necessary to receive credit for the writing component of this course. On the last due date (12/9), you will submit the final paper in its entirety: that is, revised versions of the following components, in addition to your research design, all integrated into a cohesive whole (along with a brief conclusion).

Assignment	Due date	Percentage of project grade
Research topic/proposal	September 30	5 percent
Bibliography (preliminary)	October 18	15 percent
Literature review	November 13	30 percent
Research design (integrated into final paper)	December 9	50 percent

Step 1: research topic/proposal (minimum: 500 words)

Clearly state and explain your topic and/or question of interest. Why is it interesting? Why is it worthy of study? At this preliminary stage, what do you think your ideas may contribute? Do you seek to fill a gap in the literature and our collective understanding? What makes your potential contribution unique, and actually worth pursuing? Once revised, this section will be the introduction to your final paper.

Finding a suitable idea can be difficult (and frustrating). Following current events and perusing academic journals may help get the cognitive juices flowing. Examples include: Journal of Latin American Studies; Latin American Research Review; Latin American Politics and Society; and, Latin American Perspectives.

Step 2: bibliography

This is a preliminary list of sources that seem useful. This will almost surely not be an exhaustive list – there has been more written about most topics than any one person could ever hope to read.

You must have at least 10 sources, comprised of a mix of books and academic journal articles. You may wish to gather news articles and other sources as well, though these do not count towards the minimum of 10. We will visit the Latin American Collection early in the semester to help acquaint you with available materials. For the final paper, your bibliography needs to include every source that you have cited and/or consulted – including news articles, etc. You must also cite at least 3 sources from the course readings (that is, for a total of at least 13).

Step 3: literature review (minimum: 1500 words)

Drawing from the bibliography, as well as other sources that you will uncover, here you will review the different arguments that have been made on your topic. Yet a literature review is not merely a compilation of summaries. Rather, while you will need to do some summarizing, the focus is on your analysis of these works, how they can be categorized so that we can make sense of the existing universe of literature, and the strengths and weaknesses of these differing approaches. This is similar to what is often published in academic journals as a “review essay” (examples are posted on the course site).

Step 4: research design & analysis (minimum: 2000 words)

Your analysis of the literature feeds into ideas concerning how to do better. That is, now that you have delineated the major approaches to this topic, as well as their strengths and weaknesses, what do you propose to move our understanding of this topic forward? Design a project that embodies your vision. Assuming sufficient time and financial resources, what would you do to study this topic, and why? What methods would you employ? How would you collect the relevant information? While you cannot actually carry out this project this semester, if you did, what would you expect to find? Why?

Course policies:

- All assignments may be turned in via the course website (<https://lss.at.ufl.edu/>). You are free to submit hard copies if you prefer.
- Late submissions will be penalized at a rate of 10 percent (e.g. from 95 to 85) every 12 hours.
- You can format assignments as you wish so long as the output is easy on my eyes.
- You may use your preferred citation style, provided it is applied consistently. Political science majors are encouraged to adopt APSA style (<http://writing.wisc.edu/Handbook/DocAPSA.html>).

University policies:
