COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course examines the enduring question “What is the Good Life?” from a broad range of humanistic perspectives. Topics include the cost of the good life, how people have chosen to live as members of local and global communities, and conceptions and expressions of beauty, power, love, and health.
OVERVIEW
Through a close examination of relevant works of art, architecture, history, literature, music, religion, and philosophy, students will consider the basic question, “What is the Good Life?” The question is especially relevant for a detailed examination as you become more involved in making the decisions that will shape your future and the future of others. In order to make reasonable, ethical, well-informed life choices, you need to examine how you should live both as an individual and a member of local and global communities. The course will serve as an invitation to the Humanities and to a lifetime of reflection on the human condition through the unique opportunities available to the students at the University of Florida.

Drawing on the cluster of disciplines that make up the Humanities and the considerable resources at UF in support of the Humanities, this course inquires into the very nature and experience of being human. Applying interdisciplinary and cross-cultural approaches to explore the question “What is the good life?,” it examines a multiform treasury of responses that comprises the cultural and intellectual legacy of world humanity.

Elements common to all sections include a set of core readings, a common humanities lecture, a museum exhibit, and performances at the Phillip Center. The lectures, discussion sections, and other readings are specific to each section of this course.

COMMON ACTIVITIES
This course expects students to become actively engaged in experiences unique to UF. As such, course requirements include attending a performance at the Phillips Center, visiting the Harn Museum, and listening to the Common Good Life Lecture. More information on these activities can be found at the course Sakai site.

THE UNIVERSITY HUMANITIES & GENERAL EDUCATION REQUIREMENTS
As of Summer B 2012, undergraduates are required to take HUM 2305, What is the Good Life, to fulfill 3 credits of the Humanities General Education Requirement. Additional information is available at

- http://undergrad(aa.ufl.edu/Data/Sites/9/media/good_life/humanities_course_requirement.pdf

TEXTS
Required readings and materials for the course consist of two types: “Gateways” and “Pillars.” Gateways are common to all sections of HUM 2305 regardless of the instructor. Pillars have been chosen by the individual instructors. The following required readings are available in local bookstores and online retailers either as eBooks or paperbacks:

In addition, the UF Freshman book, is also required for this section of the course as a pillar reading. If you are not a freshman then you will also need to purchase this text (i.e., transfer students and students taking this class as an elective).

All other required readings and materials are in the Resources folder of the Course’s Sakai Website.

WEBSITES
Certain websites will be visited frequently in the class under a variety of themes. As such, these websites are also being included here under ‘required readings’. These are simply sites you should explore and become familiar with and we will make references to these locations throughout the course.

• David Maisel  Photography  www.davidmaisel.com o David Maisel’s large-scaled, otherworldly photographs chronicle the complex relationships between natural systems and human intervention, piecing together the fractured logic that informs them both.

• Google Earth  www.google.com/earth/index
  o Google earth is free so be sure to download it onto your laptop/computer before the class. It’s a fun item to play with and again we will use images, maps and basic information from google earth throughout the class.

CLASSROOM RESPONSE SYSTEM (CRS)
A CRS will be used to ask students questions in lecture. Students will be required either to purchase a response device (i.e., “the clicker”) or a subscription to a web-based service (see announcements in Sakai for more information).
