

Date: June 9

Speaker: Douglas Cenzer

Title: Generically Computable Structures

Abstract: We introduce several notions of densely computable structures following the development of generically computable and coarsely computable functions. Examples are given for structures such as graphs, groups and equivalence relations. Characterizations are established for equivalence structures under certain notions.